CLOSER LOOK: Homebred is out of a stakes-winning dam who was best routing (Star Grazing is a half-sister to multiple stakes winner Friend or Foe); this is her first foal; showed plenty of potential in that debut win while running a bit of a backward race - got away well before chasing early - dropped back around the turn while under a ride - found a good finish through the final furlong to roll over the leaders late; stretched out to a mile in the Sleep Hollow last time and contested the pace with the eventual winner before weakening late and settling for third; cuts back for this an appears to have plenty of upside; contender.

Only earned a Beyer of 45 while winning on debut, though he actually ran well in that race while making a nice run around the turn from last and then staying on well in the stretch to take over; went in the NY Breeders' Futurity 13 days later, where he faced a strong field and was no match while finishing a distant fourth; lands in another tough race while starting out of the Lynch barn; needs to improve with blinkers on.

Impressed winning on debut with a good show of speed as the chalk at Saratoga; didn't press on for the lead after breaking from the rail in his second start, and he was no match for Andiamo a Firenze after doing some chasing in that spot; found easier prey in his next start and had little trouble dominating the Aspirant over a sloppy track, then engaged in a long duel before gamely getting the bob on the wire while taking a measure of revenge on Andiamo a Firenze last time; owns good speed and is already a multiple stakes winner, but he once again has other speed to deal with here; probably the horse to beat.

Made a promising debut while contesting the pace at a big price, before eventually getting away to a clear lead in the stretch, only to eventually get nailed on the wire by Pletcher firster Canarsie; had little trouble clearing to early control last time, and he gamely fought off a stretch challenge to prevail with a field-best 84 Beyer; has some quality speed to his inside but he fits on figures and still has more upside.

Maiden has only made two of his first six starts on dirt, both of those in stakes races; wasn't competitive in either of those races but his connections see fit to run him in another stakes race here; exits the best effort of his career last month while routing on turf, though he blew a clear stretch lead in that spot; turf to dirt cutting back but this is another tough spot.

Cut back to get the maiden victory on the drop last time; rallied from last to win that race easily, though only with a 49 Beyer; faces a huge step up in class for this while dropping back another furlong; is going to try to make one run in this spot, and there is a chance that things do heat up in front of him; would still be a big surprise were he to make it two in a row vs. this field. -Mike Beer

CLOSER LOOK: Was seemingly entered to help fill out this small field, but she doesn't really belong here on form; has been competing in much weaker allowance races on dirt at Finger Lakes; has appreciated added ground since being stretched out this year, and she did run well in her first couple of turf starts before going off form last year; will likely set the pace if she runs, but it would be a surprise if she were a factor late.

While she's never won at this 11F distance, she's a 3-time stakes winner going 1 1/2 miles, so stamina is obviously no concern; wasn't able to match the finishing power of the talented War Like Goddess in a couple of starts over the summer at Saratoga, but she held her own on both occasions; rebounded nicely last time out at Keeneland with a visually impressive victory; got some pace to close into, and launched an eye-catching rally on the far turn before drawing away late; may not get the same kind of setup here, but she appears to be in strong form and should be a formidable foe for the Chad Brown trio; the horse to beat.

Only just achieved her first turf victory when winning a weaker allowance race at Monmouth back in September; since then she closed willingly last time out at Laurel, but still wasn't able to capitalize on a strong early pace; has never gone this far and it's unclear if added distance will suit her; her lack of early speed is the primary concern given the lack of pace in here; prefer others.

Won over this course and distance last time when beating stablemate Capital Structure in the G3 Waya; got the jump on her rival that day, but still did well to hold sway through the lane after making an early move to take over; has seemingly improved with added distance; however, this is a tougher field than last time and she has to prove that she can be as effective over a turf course that has a little less give to it; one to consider.

German-bred mare hit her best stride at the end of last season when narrowly defeated in the Ballston Spa and E. P. Taylor; ran especially well in the former race after working out a wide trip; then found herself in the unfamiliar role of early leader at Woodbine before getting overhauled late; this year it took her a while to get back to the races, and she was somewhat dull upon return in the Athena; however, it also took her a few starts to get in gear last year, so perhaps she's sitting on an improved effort; is supposed to appreciate added distance, and she possesses the tactical speed to sit a stalking trip here; some things to like.

Didn't have a major excuse losing to stablemate Rocky Sky last time in the Waya; was farther back in the early going, but she actually settled much better than she has in some prior starts; produced a kick in the lane, but just couldn't accelerate enough to get on terms with the winner; had her fair share of trips prior to that, but most of her trouble has been of her own making, since she has a tendency to get rank in her races; likely takes money again with Irad Ortiz aboard, yet the other Brown trainees may be slightly better suited to this spot. -David Aragona

CLOSER LOOK: Has bookended her first six start with victories, capped off by a career-best effort in the first route attempt last month in the slop; she is also hit the board in three of her four starts between the two wins; the 82 Beyer she earned last time still leaves her plenty to find as she steps way up in class for this, and it is not unreasonable to wonder whether she s in here to ensure a bit of pace for her stablemate Morning Matcha; tough ask for filly coming off a solid effort.

Ships in to make her NY debut following back-to-back victories, including a game stakes win at Churchill two months ago; earned a career-best 87 Beyer when just tagging Falconet on the wire in that Seneca Overnight; progressive filly has won four of her last five and is capable of taking another step forward; has the right running style and is not that hard to make a case for, though her efforts have tended to be more game than anything else.

Improved to win that entry-level allowance back on July 1 with an 85 Beyer; has maintained that level in her three starts since while earning figures in the mid-to-upper 80s; was behind a couple of these fillies in the Seneca Overnight two back, though she didn't run poorly at all in that spot while trying to close from the back after getting bumped at the start; didn't have a real excuse last time while only second-best over a distance that features a short stretch at Keeneland; needs a little pace and might need one more step forward.

Lightly-raced filly had been in the exacta in all five starts so far and she has been steadily improving since breaking her maiden on the stretch out back in April; has settled for second in both prior stakes tries, including that Seneca Overnight where she had control of the early pace but could not quite see off Sixtythreecaliber to the wire; has speed with Irad taking over, and additional improvement can be projected.

Won the first four starts of her career for Shug, including a pair of Grade 2s early in the year at Gulfstream; earned a big 98 Beyer while easily handling a terrible field in the Gulfstream Oaks, which led to her being one of the favorites in the Kentucky Oaks; she didn't run poorly at all in that spot after being shuffled back early and then forced to come wide into the stretch; has a long layoff to overcome for one of the top trainers in the game - past five years, 180% day layoff, dirt route: 3 for 23, 13%, $0.48 ROI; might be the horse to beat despite the obstacles in front of her, though she can't just show up here in wind up in the winner's circle.

Distance has been key for this homebred, who was a Grade 3 winner over this track and trip early on; that Gazelle win led to starts in some of the major races for this division through the spring/summer, including the Kentucky Oaks where she was not a factor after enduring a tough trip; took a bit of class relief last time and ran one of the better races of her career while making up a lot of late ground with a 95 Beyer; nice fit here and one to take seriously.

Has been kept pretty busy this year while mostly kept to the right spots and she did get an important Grade 1 placing last time in the Cotillion, though she was no real threat in that spot; needed class relief to get that win three back while switching from turf to dirt; like the way she has been managed but she has a lot to prove vs. horses like this; factors late in they go in front of her.

Ran well in each of her first two starts sprinting despite coming away second best each time; dusted maidens when stretched out to a mile in September and that race turned out to be live, with the second-third-and fourth finishers all returning to win with improved figures; went this distance last time and had an easy time handling a weak field of entry-level allowance rivals; big test here but would hardly be surprising to find her being competitive. -Mike Beer

CLOSER LOOK: Had been so impressive in that optional claiming victory in May when he rocketed from last-to-first in a dazzling sub-22 final quarter mile; therefore, his next two starts against stakes company were a little disappointing, as he failed to produce that same kick; took a step in the right direction last time, as he was finishing best of all in a race that didn't feature much early pace; that said, he still finished 5 lengths behind today's rival Dancing Buck, so he has to turn the tables on that one; the good news is that he drew well towards the inside and there appears to be a bit more speed signed on this time; one to consider.

Comes off a career-best 99 Beyer, earned for his dead-heat 4th-place finish behind the classy Golden Pal; the form of that Woodford wasn't exactly flattered in the Breeders' Cup, as Golden Pal blew the start, though 3rd-place finisher Artemus Citylimits did run reasonably well in there; this gelding appears to be in great form right now, but he did have everything go his way up front when he won that optional claimer at Kentucky Downs two back; wonder if he'll try to revert to those front-running tactics here, though there is some other speed signed on; these connections don't have much experience on the NYRA circuit, and that could ensure a square price.

He's come to hand recently in two-turn one-mile races; received absolutely perfect trips in each of those last two starts, as he saved ground on the turns of both of those races; while his recent sprint attempts didn't go well, he has handled sprint distances in the past; perhaps he's ready for this turnback now that he's heading in the right direction again; however, he still needs to improve on those recent efforts to have a say in the outcome here; others appeal more.

5YO gelding is another who appears to be in the best form of his career; came to hand in the latter half of last season, nearly upsetting today's rival Voodoo Zip in an allowance race on this circuit in Oct. 2021; since then he's developed into a pretty consistent performer, running well under a variety of circumstances; held his own in the Red Bank two back after chasing a quick pace going two turns; and last time he always looked like a winner wiring a field at Laurel; there is some other speed in here, but he may be the quickest of them all early; figures to fly under the radar, but has the credentials to compete at this level; don't underestimate.

Proved that narrow loss to Golden Pal at 30-1 odds in the Troy was no fluke when he came right back and won the Lucky Coin at Saratoga; was subsequently no match for Dancing Buck and some others in the Belmont Turf Sprint, but the race flow didn't play to his strengths; was always too far back that day in a race dominated by the front-runner; rebounded nicely last time when overhauling allowance foes in convincing fashion; seems to be maintaining strong form, but he's always going to be at the mercy of the pace, so Jose Ortiz has to work out a trip; one to consider.

There was a time when he would have been one of the favorites in a race like this, but inconsistency has plagued him in recent seasons; went to the sidelines just when he appeared to be back on track at Santa Anita earlier this year; since returning for the 2nd half of the season, he's just lacked the late kick that had previously been his trademark; seemingly had good early position when uncharacteristically close to a moderate pace last time, but he came up empty in the lane; hard to endorse in his current form.

He's another whose best days seems like they might be behind him; had climbed right up the class ladder leading into that Elusive Quality score earlier this year, having run well in almost all of his turf sprint starts prior to that; however, he's been unable to recapture that form ever since; some excuses can be made, as he got a wide trip in the Jaipur, was going the wrong distance in the Forbidden Apple, and was compromised by a slow pace last time; however, he still didn't do any meaningful running in those races; plus, this barn is still struggling to get back on track ever since a rough Saratoga meet; will be a price if you can keep the faith.

Hasn't visited the winner's circle in over a year, but it's not like he's run that badly since that 105 Beyer at Kentucky Downs last year; sure, his Jaipur was a disappointment, but he got the wrong trip that day, going wide over a course that was favoring rail runners; prior to that he had some excuses, such as when he had early trouble in the Turf Sprint on Derby week; came back off the layoff last time with a respectable effort against Golden Pal; would argue he ran better than Bad Beat Brian despite finishing in a dead heat with that rival; has to overcome another outside draw here, but he has the tactical speed to get early position; contender.

His stumble at the start last time proved consequential, as it allowed Dancing Buck to shake loose on the lead, and relegated him to another closing trip; that's just not his style, as almost all of his successful performances have come using more aggressive tactics; actually did well to bet up for 3rd last time, closing into the slow pace; when you pick his performances apart, it starts to become apparent that he's in much better form than the results might indicate; however, his gate issues could work against him once again, and he's drawn in a disadvantageous outside post; though, he'll be a fair price and can be dangerous if the trip works out.

Put in an eye-catching effort to get up for the victory last time in the Carle Place; typically a forwardly-placed sort, he was forced to come from last after getting squeezed back soon after the start; Jose Ortiz didn't panic and delivered a perfect ride, tipping him out into the clear in upper stretch; was beating a weaker group that day, and it seemed like he was closing down the best part of the course with the rails way out; was done no favors at the post position draw, and that last-to-first trip will be tougher to pull off in this large field; leaning elsewhere.

The connections had supplemented to the BC Sprint off that dazzling victory last time, but he was left on the outside looking in when not selected into the field; instead reroutes here and will obviously be tough if able to repeat that last performance; however, he had a lot working in his favor that day, some speed scratched out and his main pace rival Yes and Yes blew the start, allowing him to shake loose up front; now he's drawn the far outside post position, and he will likely encounter a firmer course than last time; won't be surprised when he runs well again, but others should offer better value this time.

MTO loves to win races, having crossed the first in 17 of 26 starts over the past two seasons; hit a rough patch earlier this summer, but he's since gotten back on track in the barn of Jeffrey Englehart; put in a huge effort to just miss in the Bold Ruler two back, and rebounded just 12 days later to beat an overmatched starter allowance field; has the speed to be prominent throughout, and would be tough in his current form if this got rained off the grass. -David Aragona
