CLOSER LOOK: All 6 of these either want the lead or sit just off the pace; he stalked it nicely to graduate at today's distance; just 2 starts the least experienced runner in the field but has upside as he was heavily favored in that MSW score; the 1st start facing winners is often considered any runner's toughest class assignment and he leaps up into this stakes event; the debut show finisher Beyered 61 in his next-out SA-MSW diploma earner; view as an exotics possibility.

CLOSER LOOK: One of 2 Bafferts in here (French Blue) and he's won this race 5 times including the last 3; filly could well extend that streak as she comes off 2 big wins routing over this track; shown speed and versatility as well, which gives her rider options; kind a interesting Hernandez was up for those 2 wins but ends up on Meaning instead, so read into that what you will.

Comes off 2 good stakes routes over this track so she handles this place and this type of trip; that said, the gals who beat her in those 2 races are both lined up against her again here; but hey, she wasn't THAT far behind them and we're talking a young fairly inexperienced 3yo filly so there's room for growth; that's certainly mandatory but the Beyers say she's heading the right way so the necessary move forward is not beyond her.

One of 2 Bafferts in here (Forced Entry) and he's won this race 5 times including the last 3; debut sprint win was a pip but she ended up on the lead in the G3 Santa Ysabel and tired some late for 3rd; in her defense, that was just her 2nd start, was her first route, first try vs. winners and, as noted, she used fuel early; worked well since and a return to stalking/pressing tactics, with a race under her belt, give her some appeal.

CLOSER LOOK: Tried main track once and it wasn't pretty - back to Cal-breds here after meeting relatively solid customers in latest Gr. III event when not completely disgraced; yet to lose around one turn, so there's that...; a few of these are pretty shaky so maybe she can slide into the lower rungs of exotics with some luck.

She took a bit of time to break through the N1X barrier and now pushes the envelope a great deal with this lot; excuse latest as it was on turf, but then note that she was thumped by some of these last year; wouldn't exactly say that improvement with additional maturity has been obvious; been going non-stop since early summer and we don't love her chances of leaping forward as would be needed today.

This one has been away for a bit and thus seems to have a chance to return with greater ability than when last seen; not many at-bats on real dirt to date and none at all on the SA main; useful tactical speed to her and a 2-month string of steady a.m. drills under the hood; a wager on this gal today is a bet that she is going to move forward in considerable fashion.

Note slow start in the 2-back affair and then consider that this gal fits the potent Blinkers off a speed horse angle; say she needed that debut run and then, of course, she lost the rider in 2nd dirt try; the slow beginning on 2/20 further assures that she hasn't really known a fair chance to demonstrate her true ability on the main track; steady racing and morning bullets in the holster; barn 3-2-2-1/lst 9 on dirt with a blinker change to off.

Latest wasn't too far from a case where they ran 1-2-3 all the way around and the only pair of returnees from latest dropped their Beyer Speed Figures by 25 and 24 points; debut run seemed solid enough but everybody else who returned from it came back on turf; there certainly seems to be cause for concern if backing this one off of that last figure given pair who weren't so great next time around.

She was ultra-competitive against similar when a juvenile and the sophomore debut came on turf and when relegated to the inside role in a pace duel; can envision a vastly improved effort in first dirt attempt in FIVE months but would be more enticing had she ever so much as worked out on the SA dirt.

Daughter of Stay Thirsty was a flash in the pan last year but has yet to rekindle early form in 2026; blinkers going on for this and she'd have to turn the tables on a couple of these to merit a serious say in here; lack of great early foot seems a drawback but she did work steadily through March and at least a small step forward is a reasonable expectation; dunno that she reaches the exotics in here. -George Cottrell

 CLOSER LOOK: Exits the field's-best Beyer speed figure at 1 furlong shorter than this class earner as he broke his maiden with ease for the SA leading rider this meet who is on Robusta for this; finished behind similar 2 and 3 back beating the 3-back show finisher who Beyered 82 in his next-out SA-MSW diploma earner; the debut winner repeated in a CD-225K stakes with an 86 speed figure; view as an exotics possibility.

 Certainly have the impression viewing his San Felipe victory that today's 1-Mile and 1-8th stamina test would be right up his alley as he did not find his best stride until deep stretch of latest coming out party scoring the 8-1 upset with a perfect ride by Hernandez who is back for this; worked a bullet 9 days ago for this; saves ground then nails the speed; the pick.

 Stakes debut in the SA Derby seems like a tall task especially coming off the bench to make his 3-year-old debut; late runner should like 9 furlongs but figures to need one to see best; defeated the 3-back runner-up finisher who graduated next-out in a C D-MSW with a 74 Beyer then posted an 84 speed figure finishing 3rd in a GP Grade 3 stakes.

 Hung in there well after chasing the favored pacesetter but hard to rate him ahead of either the top 2 who are back for this with today's added yardage a huge stamina hurdle to overcome; pair of solid works for this; perhaps he can shake free early and set softer fractions up top; but has Intrepido to fend off from the bell; view as a speedy exotics possibility.

CLOSER LOOK: Certainly among the elite turf distaff sprinters in the land and remember she won this last year in a romp; that said, Princesa Moche almost got to her in that G3 down the hill last time; doesn't have to give that gal weight this time and she went fast early prompting a strong pace; she might be even more effective when not pressing such a hot tempo; but hey, she can do whatever her rider requires and she's been dynamite down the hill (3 for 4).

Seemed to be coming into her own here in the winter of 2025 with some good work including a G2 2nd and G3 SP; however, she was then dull in a G3 here last April and hasn't been seen since; that layoff is a bit disconcerting, though she'd be coming for a while so maybe that run was a sign she needed a break; well, she's had it and it's nice they feel good enough about her to bring her back in a G3; hasn't sprinted in a long time but but she did so decently way back when, and routers with speed often adapt well to the hill which can play a smidge longer than the 6 1/2fs.

Interesting new face; plenty of stakes work and success back east on a number of different courses so while it's her first time here since she's fired on so many other courses odds are she'll handle the hill; it can be tricky first time down, however, and then hitting that dirt crossing; still, it's sure nice Clement sent her; hey, he didn't ship to see the San Gabriel mountains and there were likely other options back east where the travel situation might have been easier; there are hurdles (Queen Maxima, first time down the hill, first time here) but she's got game.

No way to knock a gal who's been in the exacta in 20 of 31 starts, with 9 wins; looked good winning a route when last seen here, too; trouble is, 'when last seen' was almost 10 months ago; let's face it, you don't usually take a horse who's that sharp and put her away this long without a good reason; that said, she had been busy for a while so maybe they thought she was due for a break; but not only is there the long layoff to ponder, she's asked to sprint, something she hasn't done in eons and asked to return well up in class so while she has talent hurdles are there.

Stalked and kept to her task decently for 4th in a turf sprint stakes on the flat here Feb. 21; darn near won a G3 as a 3yo last year so she's got quality and that Feb. 21 run was her first start in 7 months so she might improve off that; the last time she tried the hill the result was that aforementioned near-miss in a G3 last April; there's no layoff this time and it's encouraging Mandella puts her back in G3 waters, and some smart recent works says she's doing well.

Darn near got to Queen Maxima in a G3 on this hillside course a few months ago, and she validated that form with a game win in a G3 route here Jan. 31; tried another route, this a G2, here Feb.28 but after chasing the pace gave way; while that was disappointing it's nice to see no drop, and returning to the hill might be just what the Dr. ordered as her 2 hillside efforts were stellar; has tactical speed to be forward and that may translate to keeping a very close eye on the favorite.

Did plenty of good work on turf back East including being a SW; bulk of her work came going longer but the hillside might actually play longer than its measured distance so that shouldn't bother here; still, there are issues as she's asked to ship across the country, try the hill for the first time and face likely the best distaff turf sprinters in SoCal; has ability to be sure but she likely needs to run a race she hasn't run yet to beat these. -Michael Hammersly
